Dear friends,

The notion of people living together in community and creating this thing called “society” is one that anthropologists and archeologists have studied for years. They discovered that ancient humans (around 11,000 years ago, at the transition from the hunter-gatherer era to agricultural settlements) were not simply cave dwellers concerned only with conquering their next meal. There was more to these early humans. Studies uncovered evidence of burial traditions that indicated a belief in something beyond death as well as a deep sense of spirituality. Scientists discovered that these early societies valued their elders (those around 30 years of age!), and also cared for those members who were lame or handicapped. In other words, the vulnerable members of the tribe were not cast off, but cared for, included, and valued.

Fast-forward to the late 1800s to the local community of Rock Island. A young couple, Annie and Libby, saw that life was good and family-friendly in this remote area of Illinois, close to Iowa. Libby worked on Arsenal Island as a leather smith, and with Annie, they established a home and began to raise their three children. But the young couple noticed a significant flaw in the community: there were numerous abandoned and orphaned children. Libby and Annie did not sit back, criticize, or complain. They made that problem their own to resolve.

These do-gooders dreamed of a better community within which families could not just live, but thrive. Libby and Annie first responded to the problem by adopting three children, adding to their family – now with six children. But Libby and Annie didn’t stop there.

With other members of the community, they crafted a more permanent solution for the problem of abandoned and orphaned children. They founded an orphanage called the “Union Mission.” And, in the early years, they and their colleagues paid for it out of their own pocket. What is remarkable about this story is that the solution they created continued and flourished. Through the early days of the 20th century, into the first world war, the horror of the Spanish Flu, through the Great Depression, a second world war, and on through to our own times, Annie and Gottlieb Germann’s Union Mission, later renamed Bethany Home, and even later Bethany for Children & Families, was there to help children and their families in times of greatest need.

Through all those 120 years, there continued to be individuals, akin to Gottlieb and Annie, who stepped forward to respond to the needs of this community, those who helped one child or one family, who did not care what their color, creed, gender, gender preference, or land of origin was, but only how they could help. Alike to the founders of the earliest human settlements thousands of years ago, they were willing to do more, to keep children safe, to care for the homeless, the aged, the impoverished, our most vulnerable members. This is what made the first human societies significant. This is what Bethany for Children & Families has done for another year in its long history. Thank you for your support and commitment to this organization. Together, we make a difference in the lives of the children and families served.

Sincerely,

Remembering a Former

Shirley Stewart, former Bethany for Children & Families President and CEO, passed away peacefully in her home in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, on January 7, 2019.

Shirley grew up on family farms in Grundy County Iowa, went to Reinbeck High School, Coe College, and later in life received her MPA degree from Iowa State University. After starting her career as a teacher in Cedar Rapids, she took a position with Family Services Agency in Cedar Rapids. She then moved on to the corporate offices of Family Services of America in Milwaukee, WI. She served as President of Bethany for Children & Families from March 1996 to September 1, 2004.

Shirley was always active in her community, holding leadership roles in the local chapter of American Association of University Women, her college sorority Chi Omega, and Washington High School Boosters Club. After her husband departed in 1978, she raised five boys as a single mother, while earning a graduate degree.

Shirley helped thousands of families and people in need through her career in family services. She touched countless lives during her time at Bethany and is remembered for her selfless service.
